ABSTRACT : Green environment relates to conserving the environment and improving the health of the environment. Green environment is essential not only for human beings but it is more essential for the survival of all living organisms. The need and importance of green environment are to reduce pollution, safe guard the globe from global warming and effective utilization of resources. Some of the factors that contribute to the green environment are reduction of plastic usage, afforestation, usage of vehicles and so on. People use to earn and save money and assets for future generation but the most important thing is that future generation must have pure and clean water and air, which will be given only through green environment.

KEYWORDS: Green environment, health, living organisms, future generation, afforestation

INTRODUCTION:

Green environment relates to the conserving the environment and improving the health of the environment. Green environment is essential not only for human beings but it is more essential for the survival of all living organisms. Green environment not only refers to planting trees and afforestation, it refers to the renewability of energy and usage of resources in such a way they do not harm the environment. Green environment saves time, money and resources. There is a famous phrase “Health is wealth” health is that much important more than wealth. Green environment paves the way for healthy life of people. People today are spoiling the environment without the basic responsibility of conserving the environment. Convenience is the sole aim of people today without considering anything, there arises the need for the creation of awareness to safeguard the environment.

NEED AND IMPORTANCE OF GREEN ENVIRONMENT:

TO REDUCE POLLUTION:

Air pollution has become the most important problem facing the economy. Clean air is essential for healthy living. Air is the only thing which is available at free of cost, but the situation is not the same as such nowadays in big cities like Delhi pure oxygen is for sale. Actually, it is the worst thing to digest. Human has made the environment highly polluted that even the air in the environment is not pure to inhale. The only way to breathe pure oxygen is to make the environment greenly.
